

Contents

Authors	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Chapter One	1
From Object to Subject: Towards a New Narrative for the Nile and Water in Ancient Egyptian Civilization
THOMAS SCHNEIDER
Chapter Two	15
A Compendium of Recent Evidence from Egypt and Sudan for Climate Change during the Pharaonic Period
PEARCE PAUL CREASMAN
Chapter Three	49
Nile Management: The Evolving Dialogue Between Egyptians and Their Mighty, Migrating River
JUDITH BUNBURY
Chapter Four	67
Human-Environmental Relationships within Neolithic Adaptations
JOANNE ROWLAND

Chapter Five	87
The Role of Settlements and Urban Society for the History of Ancient Egypt: The Case Study of Tell Edfu during the Late Old Kingdom
NADINE MOELLER
Chapter Six	107
Interpreting Ramesside Landing Places Along the Egyptian Nile Valley: Landscape and Geomorphological Features of the Floodplain
ANGUS GRAHAM
Chapter Seven	145
Landscape, Settlement, and Populations: Production and Regional Dynamics in Middle Egypt in the Longue Durée
JUAN CARLOS MORENO GARCÍA
Chapter Eight	171
Ceramics as Indicators of Complexity
LESLIE ANNE WARDEN
Chapter Nine	181
Reconstructing Egypt's Paleoecology and Paleoclimate: An Assessment of the Opportunities and Pitfalls
PEARCE PAUL CREASMAN
Chapter Ten	197
Conclusion: Towards a "Geoegyptology"
CHRISTINE L. JOHNSTON
Manifesto	215
A Manifesto for the Study of the Ancient Egyptian Environment
J. BUNBURY, P.P. CREASMAN, A. GRAHAM, C. JOHNSTON, N. MOELLER, J. ROWLAND, T. SCHNEIDER, L.A. WARDEN, AND W. WENDRICH
Appendix	217
Sources for the Study of the Ancient Egyptian Environment
CHRISTINE L. JOHNSTON AND LEESHA CESSNA
Index	273